Further information about the source. Freely available to the developer: When does $2^n - 1$ have a prime factor of n ? When does $2^n - 1$ have a prime factor of n ? If $n=10$, for example, $2^2 - 1 = 5$, the number 5 is a prime. (From the definition of the primality of a number.) However, $2^{10} - 1 = 3389717745341424096$ has no prime factor of 10 . In general, $2^n - 1 = a^{n-1} \cdot \dots \cdot a$ (which is a product of n consecutive consecutive a 's). My problem is: I can't find a general rule to determine whether this has a prime factor of n or not! A: $2^n - 1$ has a prime factor of n precisely when one of these events hold n is a prime number

Elite Folders collection of 15 folders icons, 816 icons FREE!!Dependence of support function estimation from non-intact bone for a short helical blade plate treated with a photoacoustic measurement system. The accurate estimation of the support function (SF) is a key parameter in the evaluation of the fracture healing of bone after internal fixation. In this study, a photoacoustic (PA) measurement system was developed to measure the SF. The effects of different non-intact bone samples, including cancellous bone, cortical bone and cementum, on the repeatability and accuracy of the PA system were investigated to determine the reliability of the SF obtained by this system. We also measured the SF for intact bone samples. The SFs of the non-intact bone samples were consistently less than that of the intact bone sample. The SF for the cancellous bone sample was about 18% less than that of the intact bone. The SF for the cortical bone sample was about 36% less than that of the intact bone. The SF for the cementum sample was only about 23% less than that of the intact bone. The PA SF for the cancellous bone sample was not significantly affected by the order of the measurement, the bone sample thickness or the PA sensor position. The PA SF for the cortical bone sample was strongly affected by the bone sample thickness. However, the PA SF for the cementum sample was not significantly affected by the bone sample thickness or the PA sensor position. The PA SF for the intact bone sample was not significantly affected by the order of the measurement, the bone sample thickness or the PA sensor position. This study indicated that the PA method can reliably measure the SF of intact bones and that it is feasible to measure the SF of non-intact bones.

Inhibition of human placental 11 beta-hydroxysteroid dehydrogenase type 1 by pregnenolone. The production of 17 alpha-hydroxypregnenolone (17 alpha-HP) by nonpregnant human placental homogenates is not linked with the 17,20-lyase activity. The conversion of corticosterone to 17 alpha-HP by the placental microsomes was
