No, that doesn't mean you can't rip 'em. This IS an illegal site, so p..Last month, the Donald Trump re-election campaign announced they had raised $33 million for the 2020 race, a historic haul and a point of pride for the president. This month, his campaign announced it had just received $50 million in donations in the month of April alone. But the reported $50 million is potentially worse news for Trump than the half-billion dollars he has previously said his campaign has raised. Most of the money Trump has raised has come from a small number of mega-donors—including the RNC, Trump, and various other conservative groups—and, per the campaign, is set to continue. The $50 million figure is reportedly made up of $20 million from two more mega-donors, and another $30 million that is coming in. The fact that Trump has been boasting about how well his
