Bone morphogenetic proteins (BMPs) have been implicated in many important developmental processes in vertebrates. They are expressed in embryonic and adult tissues and seem to have many effects in the adult organism. At the molecular level, BMPs act through receptors type I and type II serine/threonine kinases. Although most of the actions of BMPs have been studied in the nervous system, the role of BMP signaling in the immune system is not completely understood. We have investigated the role of the BMP family in macrophage recruitment and heart function after myocardial infarction (MI). We show that BMP-7 has a very strong pro-survival activity in macrophages and that depletion of BMP-7 in these cells reduces their survival in vivo. Furthermore, we show that BMP-7 is required for the recruitment of macrophages and the formation of scar tissue after MI.Q: Sufficient conditions for a matrix being "normal" A matrix $A \in \mathbb{R}^{m \times n}$ is called normal if for all $v \in \mathbb{R}^n$ and $b \in \mathbb{R}^m$ with $vA + A^Tb = 0$, we have $v = 0$ and $b = 0$. What are the sufficient conditions for a matrix $A \in \mathbb{R}^{m \times n}$ to be normal? A: $A\in \mathbb{R}^{m \times n}$ is normal iff $A^TA = 0$. This is a sufficient condition since then $vA + A^$
